East Rise

No Chain. Positioned within a quiet cul de sac in Llanishen, this fully renovated and extended detached home has been thoughtfully reworked to create a balanced and highly practical living space. The design centres around light and flow, most evident within the open plan kitchen dining room where a lantern roof and wide bi fold doors draw the outside in, creating a natural connection to the garden.

The interior has been finished with care, combining clean lines with warm, tactile materials. Parquet style flooring runs through the ground floor, adding texture and continuity, while the living room offers a more traditional feel with its bay fronted aspect. Upstairs, the layout is well considered, with three bedrooms and a well appointed bathroom, all presented in a ready to move into condition.

Outside, the landscaped garden has been arranged to provide both structure and usability, with defined planting areas and a raised lawn, alongside a detached garage and practical side access.

Llanishen remains one of Cardiff's most consistently popular residential areas, offering a strong sense of community alongside excellent amenities. Llanishen village provides a range of shops, cafés and everyday conveniences, while nearby Ty Glas and Thornhill expand the offering further. The area is well served by reputable local schools and benefits from good transport links, including Llanishen train station providing direct access into Cardiff city centre. Green spaces such as Llanishen Reservoir and Parc Cefn Onn are within easy reach, adding to the overall appeal for buyers seeking both convenience and outdoor space.

Offered with no onward chain, this is a well resolved home in a sought after setting.
