About The Property

Looking for a deceptively spacious home with a generous garden and bags of potential?

This detached bungalow in Penparc is set in a tucked-away cul-de-sac, offering flexible space inside and out, all just a short drive from Cardigan Bay and the West Wales coastline.

From the front, it's not obvious just how much space this detached bungalow in Penparc has to offer. Sitting on around 0.31 acres and at the end of a small cul-de-sac, it has a practical layout, off-road parking, and a good-sized rear garden that's got plenty of scope for anyone wanting to put their own stamp on it.

Inside, the central hallway links all the main parts of the house. There's useful storage here, including an airing cupboard, with each of the rooms branching off. The main bedroom overlooks the back garden and comes with built-in wardrobes and an en-suite that includes a double shower, WC and wash basin. The second bedroom is another double, positioned at the front. Bedroom three is more of a generous single or a small double, facing the rear garden. The family bathroom is well-sized with a bath, toilet, bidet and wash hand basin – with plenty of space to add a shower if needed.

The lounge/diner runs down one side of the house and is effectively two areas that could be used flexibly – perhaps one part for a dining table or home office, and the other as a living space. The living area has a central electric fireplace and opens up to the conservatory at the back. This hexagon-shaped room looks over the garden, and the double doors open out to a decked ramp down to the patio. It's a great spot to enjoy the view of the back garden while still being tucked inside. The conservatory also benefits from electric underfloor heating.

Details Continued:

The kitchen is at the heart of the house and has space for a table at one end. There's a good mix of wall and base units, along with a Bosch gas hob, electric oven and extractor. There's plumbing for a dishwasher and room for an undercounter fridge/freezer. A door from here leads through to the utility room, which also has access to the patio, and includes a second sink, more storage units and space for both a washing machine and tumble dryer. The LPG gas combi boiler is located here too, serving both heating and hot water. There is also an attic hatch here with a pull-down ladder,

There's also a handy WC in the utility area, plus a small inner hallway that leads to a home office (with a side window) and a fourth bedroom. This fourth bedroom has built-in storage and could work well as a guest room, snug or another workspace depending on needs.

Externally:

Outside, the tarmac drive at the front has space for up to four cars. Both sides of the property have gated access leading to the rear and side gardens. The front garden includes mature shrub borders, and the back is laid out in three sections. Closest to the house, outside the utility, there's a herringbone brick-paved area – ideal for a washing line or outdoor storage, and there's a handy shed already in place. This paving continues to the area behind the lounge and conservatory where there's another patio space, again with mature planting around it.

Steps lead up from here to the back garden proper – a generous lawn bordered by hedging and fencing. It's a blank canvas and could be shaped into something special, whether that's raised beds, a veg plot, greenhouse, or just a space to enjoy sitting outside.

The property does need a bit of updating in places but has a solid layout and plenty of room to work with. Tucked away yet within easy reach of Cardigan town and the West Wales coast, it's well placed for those looking for a home with flexibility, outside space and potential.
