Located in the historic and picturesque hamlet of Piccotts End, on the outskirts of Hemel Hempstead, this charming end of terrace cottage is rich in character and history. Dating from around 1710, the property forms part of a small row of cottages that once housed a village bakery and shop, serving the local community until 1953.

Situated within a conservation area, the home was designated a Grade II listed building in 1977 in recognition of its special architectural and historic interest. Known in recent years as Painter's Cottage, the property also enjoys a creative heritage and long association with artists, adding an extra layer of charm to this distinctive home.

Arranged over three floors, the house offers beautifully proportioned living space that balances period character with modern versatility. The accommodation includes four bedrooms and two bathrooms, with the fourth bedroom positioned within the loft, a flexible space perfectly suited as a principal suite, guest suite, private office or creative studio.

The ground floor features a welcoming living room centred around a charming wood burning stove, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere throughout the colder months. To the rear, a stylish kitchen and dining room form the heart of the home, thoughtfully arranged to suit both everyday family life and relaxed entertaining. Throughout the house, the layout provides adaptable living spaces that comfortably support contemporary lifestyles while preserving the cottage's historic character.

Beyond the main house, the property continues to impress. To the rear a shared courtyard leads to a substantial detached barn offering valuable additional space and exceptional versatility. The barn incorporates a three car garage. Above, a large room includes a kitchenette and WC, making it ideal for a home office, creative studio or hobby room.

The generous rear garden provides a wonderful outdoor setting with ample space for gardening, relaxing and outdoor entertaining.

Altogether, this is a unique opportunity to acquire a characterful property with outbuildings and plenty of scope to make it your own in one of the area's most appealing settings.
