An imposing and distinguished period manor house occupying a wonderful position within the Warwickshire countryside, close to Coughton and Alcester. Set within generous, mature grounds and enjoying far-reaching rural views, the property offers an exceptional combination of architectural character, substantial accommodation and extensive ancillary buildings.

Description

The house possesses a wonderful sense of grandeur and presence, with generously proportioned rooms, period character and an impressive arrangement of both formal and informal living spaces.

A welcoming reception hall provides an elegant introduction to the ground floor, from which the principal reception rooms are arranged. These include a substantial drawing room, formal dining room, family room, study and music room, providing considerable flexibility for both family life and entertaining.

At the heart of the house is the generous kitchen and breakfast room, complemented by a pantry and further practical accommodation. The arrangement works particularly well for a substantial country home, combining impressive entertaining spaces with comfortable everyday living.

The first floor is equally impressive, with five well-proportioned bedrooms and bathroom facilities. Of particular note is the magnificent snooker room, an unusual and characterful feature which provides a superb recreational and entertaining space.

Further accommodation is provided by a second-floor loft room and extensive storage, while a cellar beneath the house offers additional useful space.

The grounds provide an impressive setting for the house, with sweeping lawns, mature trees and established planting creating a quintessential country-house atmosphere. A swimming pool forms a particularly attractive focal point during the summer months, complemented by alfresco entertaining and BBQ areas ideal for gatherings with family and friends.

Of particular significance is the extensive range of outbuildings. These include stabling, tack room, open barn, detached coach house, garaging, workshops and additional stores, providing an exceptional degree of flexibility. The buildings lend themselves particularly well to equestrian use, classic or specialist car collections, workshops, hobbies or substantial storage, with potential for alternative uses subject to the necessary consents.

The property occupies an attractive semi-rural setting surrounded by the rolling Warwickshire countryside, with wonderful open views and a genuine sense of space and seclusion. Despite its rural surroundings, it remains conveniently positioned for Alcester and Stratford-upon-Avon, together with access to the wider regional road network.

A rare and highly individual Warwickshire country house of considerable presence, offering impressive proportions, extensive grounds and an outstanding range of ancillary buildings in a beautiful rural setting.
