GUIDE PRICE - £625,000 - £650,000

Situated on the popular Monson Road in Redhill, this attractive four-bedroom semi-detached period home offers a wonderful blend of character features and modern living, having been thoughtfully extended to both the rear and into the loft.

The property is well presented throughout and retains a wealth of charming period details, creating a warm and inviting feel from the moment you step inside. The ground floor offers a generous living room to the front, while to the rear is a particularly impressive kitchen/dining space forming the heart of the home. This room has been extended to provide excellent proportions, with features such as a butler sink and range oven adding both practicality and style, making it ideal for family life and entertaining.

Across the upper floors, the accommodation comprises three well-proportioned double bedrooms alongside a comfortable single bedroom, offering flexibility for families, guests or those working from home. The loft conversion provides additional space and enhances the overall layout, while the family bathroom is complemented by the home's well-balanced configuration.

Externally, the property continues to impress with a low-maintenance, east-facing rear garden, perfect for enjoying morning sun. At the end of the garden sits a superb garden room complete with its own log burner, creating a versatile space that works equally well as a home office, studio or an additional area to relax and entertain all year round.

To the front, a double driveway provides convenient off-street parking, a valuable feature for homes in this location.

Monson Road is ideally positioned for families and commuters alike, with highly regarded schools nearby within walking distance. Redhill train station is also easily accessible on foot, offering direct links into London and Gatwick, making this an excellent choice for those needing strong transport connections
